OVERVIEW

Andy Tataryn is an attorney in Maslon's Corporate & Securities Group with deep experience across a broad range of corporate, securities, and transactional matters, representing startups, public and private companies, and investors.

In nearly two decades of private practice, Andy has advised clients in numerous private financings, public offerings, and M&A transactions. He delivers expert counsel in the areas of corporate governance, SEC reporting and compliance, and NASDAQ and NYSE listing compliance. He also advises companies in matters involving equity incentive compensation, commercial contracts, and general corporate law.

Prior to entering private practice, Andy served in various positions in the Division of Corporation Finance of the Securities and Exchange Commission, where he worked on all matters relating to disclosure by public companies, including capital raising, M&A, periodic reporting and proxy statements.

Andy enjoys working closely with management and being a part of the business team, a quality that clients recognize and appreciate.
